How to Act in Business, LLC

Corey Hansen has 20 years experience as a teacher and coach with a diverse background covering corporate and theatrical audiences. Corey has coached and consulted senior executives and their teams from Fortune 100 companies and specializes in Presenter Performance and Professional Presence. He draws on his 30-year combined experience in acting, small business ownership, academic professorship and the corporate stage to help people of all levels effectively play their professional roles.

Prior to his current status as workshop leader, actor, author, and founder of “How to Act in Business”, Corey performed on the theatrical stage internationally. He received his Master of Fine Arts degree in Acting from the University of California, San Diego, and then as a Los Angeles based professional actor earned membership in the Screen Actors Guild, American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, and Actors Equity Association. From Arena Stage in Washington DC to a thatched-roof farmhouse theatre in Togamura, Japan, from TV to theatre to film, Corey learned techniques that prove invaluable to his clients as they deal with their daily performances in business.

As a professor in the Graduate School of Drama at the University of Washington, Seattle, Corey coached some of the nation's top talent in the Professional Actor Training Program, a three-year intensive for twelve-member classes who were accepted after national auditions. Specializing in Movement for the Actor using the Suzuki Method of Actor Training, Corey helped grow the program to a third place national ranking just behind Yale and NYU.

With his twenty-year tenure at Sprint Corporation he held management positions in advanced products, client services, marketing, and leadership curriculum development. Most recently he hosted executive clients from all over the world as Briefing Consultant with the internationally acclaimed Sprint World Headquarters Executive Briefing Center. As an executive coach with Sprint, Corey coached senior executive team members in communication skills and overall performance improvement. He was often called upon to deliver customized keynotes for leadership all-hands meetings and was selected to host the live broadcast from the New York Stock Exchange as Sprint and Nextel webcast their merger. Former CEO Dan Hesse chose Corey to deliver the all-company live broadcast of their record-setting Spark network which helped Corey earn one of the company's top honors, the Circle of Excellence award. Corey's energetic and unique style earned him spots as lead presenter for NASCAR Sprint Cup Series Technology Forums and for NFL Monday Night Football and Super Bowl executive sessions.
